WALK-OVER WINS IN BOWLING CONTEST

The Forest Service bowling team of the City league was defeated last night by the Walk-Over team in three interesting sets. The victors kept their scores well bunched, while a wide difference was noted in those made by the members of the defeated team. The hero of the game was Moore, of the forest service, who not only had the highest score for an individual set, 193, but for the game, 542. The complete score was as follows:

NAVAL ACADEMY PLAYS PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, Oct. 17.—The University of Pennsylvania and Annapolis Naval academy football teams met today on Franklin field. It was the first time the teams have met since 1902 and the only game the navy has ever played away from home except when it met the Army.

Fast, clean football could hardly be expected as the field is thoroughly soaked from two days of hard rain.

LEADS FOOTBALLERS AT NORTHWESTERN

Captain Hightower.

Hightower is captain of the Northwestern football eleven. His dream of winning the western conference championship was spoiled when the Maroons defeated Northwestern on October 10.

FOUR BIG NINES AFTER PENNANT

Wisconsin and Purdue in Bitterly Fought Game on Madison Gridiron.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Gridiron struggles bringing four undefeated "big nine" eleven to play held the interest in western football today.

The game between the University of Wisconsin and Purdue, scheduled for Madison, promised was bitterly fought as both eleven are striving to win the 1914 championship of the western conference. Last year these teams played a 7 to 7 tie. Purdue, although heralded as even stronger than in 1913, lost keenly the loss of Oliphant, who scored its touchdown against Wisconsin last year.

With Iowa as its opponent, Chicago played its third conference game of the season. Victory for Chicago, experts predicted, seemed assured at the opening although the Iowa eleven with its fast, shifty, backfield, was expected to rip through the field for long gains and at least score one, and possibly two, touchdowns.

Although the game will have no bearing on the "big nine" championship Northwestern and Indiana put up a stubborn contest. Both teams have been defeated this season, Indiana by Chicago and Illinois and Northwestern by Chicago.

Illinois went into action against Ohio State at Urbana.

South Dakota was Minnesota's foe at Minneapolis in a game, which experts pointed out should give the Gophers a hard test in preparation for their game with Illinois on October 31.

While Purdue and Wisconsin and Chicago and Iowa were fighting over "big nine" honors, the University of Michigan was engaged in an attempt to wipe out the defeat suffered at the hands of the Michigan Aggies last year. The Aggies have almost, if not quite, as strong a team as last season.

JINX TRYING TO UPSET HARVARD

Will Cambridge Be Bowled Off Throne of Football Supremacy This Season?

(By Monty)
New York, Oct. 17.—Is the jinx trying to tumble Harvard off the throne of football supremacy? Four of the most capable performers on the team have been stricken by injury or illness during the last ten days and may be among the missing when the big games on the Crimson schedule begin to pile up.

During one of his world's series trips from Philadelphia to Boston, George Stallings, manager of the champion Braves, regarded as the most superstitious man in baseball, stopped off in New York. The big chief is a football enthusiast as well as a baseball wonder worker. When told about the misfortune of Brickley, Mahan, Logan and Sweetzer, he was emphatic in declaring that it was all the work of the same jinx that broke the leg of Red Smith, his third baseman.

If Harvard really is in for a spell of hard luck, it should not complain overly much, for the Cambridge team has fared better in this line than any of its big rivals during the last few years. Whenever an important game came along Coach Houghton always had his full strength on the field, whereas on several occasions the opposing team has been weakened in a number of sports by injuries. The luck seems to be turning at last, however.

The first Harvard man to fall victim to the jinx is Eddie Mahan, whose leg was badly twisted in a scrimmage. It is unlikely that he will play until the Michigan game on October 31, if indeed he is fit again by then. Besides the fleet halfback, two others were hurt on the same afternoon. Sweetzer, the Sophomore tackle and Logan, the veteran quarterback. The latter has a damaged shoulder and Sweetzer is banged up generally as the result of a hard tackle.

Last Saturday came the greatest shock of all, when Captain Charley Brickley fell a victim of appendicitis and had to undergo an operation.

Brickley, the greatest factor on the eleven, and in fact the greatest football in the country, hardly will be recovered from his operation sufficiently in play again until the Brown game on November 14, and the chances are in fact that he will be out of the lineup until the Yale game of November 21. It is even possible that he may perform no more all season.

Harvard has a long stretch of formidable opponents, looming ahead of it.

BEST RUNNER IN WORLD DEAD

Jean Bouin of Marseilles Is Killed in Battle Near Paris.

The great war has resulted in the death of probably the greatest runner in the world, Jean Bouin of Marseilles, killed in a battle near Paris. Many believed Bouin better than Kolehmainen. Certainly the title lay between them and if Bouin had not died, a series of races would shortly have settled the question of supremacy.

Bouin began his athletic career in 1909, and although he then hung up French records in all distances from 2500 metres to 20,000 metres, he did not show his true form until the summer of 1911 when he shattered all of his previous marks.

In that year he went to England and showed his heels to the best English distance men. After his victories the English experts acknowledged him the world's greatest runner.

When Bouin returned to France that year, a special match was arranged for him with Bouchard, the French professional who had defeated the English professionals and had run second to Hans Holmer in the Powder Hall marathon of 1910. The French authorities granted permission to such a race and a French newspaper offered a valuable prize.

Bouin made his opponent look cheap. He led at every mile and won by more than a furlong. After he was beaten by Kolehmainen in the Olympic games the Frenchman returned to France and began a system of training to put himself in the best of condition. His training was not running or walking; he did a little of those but in order to prime himself for a great performance he took to fencing, swimming, wrestling and calisthenics. In his opinion it was those sports that put him in shape to do his best on the track.

After a hard course of work at these sports he returned to Stockholm prepared to hang up a new record. He announced on his arrival there that he was a faster man than Kolehmainen and requested the Swedish athletic officials to hold a meet at which he could prove that he was the greatest distance man.

An hour race was arranged. Bouin ran and covered 19,021.90 metres (11 miles, 1443 yards). This beat the world's record made by Alfred Shrubbs in 1904 by 307 yards.

During his athletic career he won hundreds of races and hung up many records. Besides his hour mark he has traveled other distance in unprecedented time.

JACK HARBERTSON IS TOO MUCH FOR THE DEMON BARTEL

"Jack Harbertson is one of the best middleweights that I ever met and I have been wrestling for 12 years. I have met and defeated some of the best men in the game and you can find my record in Frank Gotch's wrestling book." Such was the statement made by Fred "Demon" Bartel last night after he was defeated by the Ogden man in a grueling bout.

It took Harbertson just 38 minutes to annex Bartel's scalp, the two falls being secured with reverse body holds in 24 1-2 and 14 minutes, respectively. The comparative briefness of the bout was no criterion of its merit, as both men mixed things in almost lightning-like fashion from start to finish, and general comment on it was that it was one of the most satisfactory ones ever pulled off in the city. It was attended by a crowd of fans, the size of which indicated that wrestling is a favorite sport locally, if properly conducted.

The preliminary bouts, each one being a hard fought, and each wrestler showing a good knowledge of the game. The first one was participated in by Elvin Wilkinson and De Forges Stephens. The latter was victorious, securing the first fall with a full Nelson, in 8 minutes, and the second with a half Nelson and body hold, in 14 minutes.

The contestants in the second bout were Lew Roberts of Ogden and Tony Campbell of Idaho. Campbell sprung a big surprise on the local fans, who knew Roberts to be an exceptionally fast wrestler, by securing two straight falls, the time being 9 1-2 and 10 minutes and the holds, a half Nelson and body lock and a head and body.

Henry Jones of Provo, amateur lightweight champion of Utah, and Glen Holmes of Liberty went on for a ten-minute bout. Jones proved to be about the most experienced wrestler of his weight that has been seen here in a long time, and though Holmes put up a good defense, the Provo man secured a fall in 6 minutes with a head scissors and arm hold.

All three bouts were refereed by Charles Renthrop. Immediately preceding the main bout of the evening, Sandow, a Chicago middleweight, was introduced by Announcer Frank White, and challenged the winner, Charles Renthrop, champion of Europe, issued a similar challenge.

When Bartel came on the mat, he was greeted only by a small amount of applause, but before he left it, though defeated, every fan present gave him a "hand" for putting up a fight that for gameness could not well be surpassed. Throughout the bout, he proved that his title of "Demon" was well earned, but his many tricks and speed were of no avail against the local man and the latter's superior strength and relentless offense proved too great to overcome.

Harbertson's showing was such that not only his opponent realized that he was one of the most promising wrestlers of his weight now before the public, but as the bout progressed, even those who had lost faith in him were forced to acknowledge that he had the makings of a future champion. On defense, he was like an eel, slipping out of every hold that his opponent secured with ease, and his offensive tactics were so steady and clever that Bartel's long mat experience could not offset them for any length of time, when they were backed up by youth and strength. The bout was refereed by T. B. Kelly and began at 10:25 o'clock. Both wrestlers hit a fast pace right from the handshake and in a half minute Harbertson had his opponent on the mat. Bartel was up again in a few seconds and another mixup, which lasted until the three minute mark was passed, resulted in Jack taking the offense again, with an arm hold. For a couple of minutes he worked for a more telling hold, but Bartel, with a desperate effort worked free and both men arose to their feet.

From this position the fast pace was kept up and in a half minute both were on their knees and a moment later, as Bartel made a jump to secure the top position, Harbertson caught him by the foot, followed up his advantage and went on the offense.

The local man then got an arm lock and was working for a hammerlock when, with a display of unusual agility, Bartel virtually flipped out of his grasp and reversed positions. He then tried for a toe hold, but while he was doing so, Harbertson twisted around and went on top again. Pressing his advantage, Jack got the "Demon" with a punishing arm and head hold, but by strenuous kicking, the latter finally managed to break completely away from him and both went to their feet. A fast mixup was then staged, during which the fans were kept guessing as to which one would occupy the lower berth on the mat when it ended, and Harbertson again secured the advantage.

At the 15-minute point, Harbertson threw his opponent clear across the mat and both went on their feet again. Harbertson eased up on his strenuous efforts for a couple of seconds and Bartel alert to every opportunity, secured a hold and threw him to the mat. As the "Demon" was trying for a punishing hold, the local man secured a head scissors from his under position, threw his opponent clear over, caught him before he could get up and went behind.

Bartel kicked loose again, despite Jack's strenuous efforts to hold him, but this time the latter waited on his knees for Bartel to get into the game again. The visitor did not wait a second to accept the challenge, but all that he could do was to get into the tangle again.

This time, Harbertson secured a double arm hold, with Bartel across his body, but with three desperate kicks, his opponent again managed to get free. The bout continued in this manner for several minutes longer, with Harbertson tightening up more and more, using a hammerlock and trying to work into a reverse body hold. He finally succeeded in his effort and this time strength prevailed over all the kicking that Bartel could do, and as the watch passed the 24 1-2 minute point, Referee Kelly patted him on the back as the winner.

of the first fall. The two men on the mat for the second fall at 11:03, filled with wrestling even faster than that of the preceding twenty-four minutes. The feature of it was Bartel's display of gameness, against Harbertson's superior ability and when the defeated man got on a chair to make his speech he was cheered to the echo.

After expressing his good opinion of Harbertson, Bartel threw out some insinuating remarks about Renthrop, saying that he would wrestle him at any time or place. This was answered by Renthrop. In a further passage of hot words, Bartel said that he could defeat Renthrop with ease and that he would wrestle him immediately if the fans would put up 50 cents each to see the bout. To this Renthrop answered that he had not thought of wrestling Bartel so soon, but that he would accept the challenge. The fans were willing and the bout was staged, the agreement as to the receipts being that the winner should take all.

Renthrop won both falls, the first being forfeited by Bartel at the 7-minute point, when his opponent secured a step-over toe-hold and administered some painful punishment. The second fall was secured by Renthrop in 4 1-2 minutes, with an arm scissor and arm lock. Bartel was, of course, weak from his previous bout, but Renthrop showed himself to be a wrestler of no mean ability. As Bartel left the hall, his parting words to the crowd were, "Utah has too much class for me."

OGDEN BOY AT THE MANHATTAN

Salt Lake, Oct. 17.—Charley Midkiff, who accepted terms to meet Jack Meyers of the Harman club in the headline bout of the Manhattan Athletic club at the Garrick theatre, changed his mind and left the city some time Wednesday or Thursday without notifying Manager Downing. As a consequence Downing has been compelled to put another man in Midkiff's place. He has engaged "Kid" Davis of Ogden, who fought Midkiff two of the hardest four-round draws ever seen at the Garrick. The card, therefore, has not been weakened in the least. Davis has been aching for another chance at Midkiff or some of the other local boys and readily accepted the match with Meyers. He is another such a battler as Midkiff. He keeps tearing in all the time and the harder they hit him the harder he fights back, and so far none of them have ever hit him hard enough to make him slow up.
